1
2 CHAIRPERSON BREWER: Good morning.
3 I'm Gale Brewer, chair of the Committee on 4 Governmental Operations, and we're here to talk 5 about three bills that we're going to be voting on 6 it today. They are focused on strengthening the 7 city's ability to prevent and uncover fraud and 8 misuse of taxpayer dollars.

9 First, proposed Intro No. 816-A 10 sponsored by Council Member Dan Garodnick--and I'm 11 sure he'll make a statement in a few minutes--would 12 extend the protection afforded by the city's 13 whistleblower law to employees of city contractors
14 and subcontractors with contracts valued in excess 15 of $100,000. Currently the city's whistleblower
16 law only affords protection to city employees.
17 The law does not apply to employees of city
18 contractors or subcontractors, yet as we all know 19 work performed by contractors and subcontractors 20 makes up a very significant portion of our city's 21 expenditures. Many of these contracts are for the 22 types of projects historically susceptible to 23 fraud and abuse, such as construction, technology 24 and social service contracts. Expanding the 25 coverage of our city's whistleblower law would

1
2 help encourage the people who are in the best
3 position to recognize and root out contract fraud
4 and abuse to come forward. When the Committee
5 heard this bill at a previous hearing on April 6 16th, it was opposed by the Administration. The 7 Administration expressed concern about entangling
8 the Department of Investigation in complicated 9 private labor disputes and the potential strain on 10 its resources that it might cause. Since that 11 time, thanks to the staff here today, the 12 Committee has worked with the Administration and 13 resolved their concerns without diluting the 14 whistleblower protection rights afforded to 15 employees of city contractors. The amended bill 16 enables these employees to enforce these rights 17 through a private right of action, which will 18 ensure an employee who is retaliated against can 19 be made whole. In addition, the amended bill 20 extends these protections to employees of sub-21 contractors as well as contractors.

22 The second bill is proposed Intro
23 479-A, also sponsored by Council Member Garodnick.
24 It would require all city contractors and 25 subcontractors with contracts valued in excess of

1
2 $100,000 to post a notice containing information 3 about 1) how its employees can report to the 4 Department of Investigations allegations of fraud, 5 false claims, criminality or corruption and 2) the 6 whistleblower protection rights afforded under 7 city law for reporting to the Department of 8 Investigation information about contract abuse, 9 including allegations of fraud, false claims, 10 criminality and corruption. Such notice would be 11 required to be placed in a prominent and 12 accessible place on any site where work pursuant 13 to a contract is performed. This notice 14 requirement would help ensure that employees of 15 city contractors and subcontractors know how they 16 can report information about contract fraud and 17 abuse to DOI and that under city law they are 18 protected from retaliation by their employer for 19 doing so.

20 Finally, 828-A, sponsored by 21 myself, extends the New York City False Claims Act 22 that was originally passed and sponsored by 23 Council Member then David Yassky. The New York 24 City False Claims Act, which was modeled after the 25 Federal False Claims Act, was enacted by the

1
2 Council in 2005 as Local Law No. 53. Pursuant to 3 Local Law No. 53, the city's False Claims Act 4 will expire on June 1st this year unless the 5 Council acts to renew it as I hope we will today.
6 This act is another tool that helps the city 7 uncover fraud by rewarding whistleblowers who 8 bring forth information about fraudulent claims.
9 Since its enactment, the law has proven to be a 10 useful tool for getting information about fraud 11 against the city. I want to thank the 12 Administration for indicating that. It is 13 important that we don't let it expire. In 14 addition to lifting the sunset provision, Intro 15 828-A also makes amendments that bring it into 16 closer conformance with the state False Claims 17 Act. We will now vote on each legislation. I 18 would like to thank Seth Grossman, attorney for 19 the Committee, and Tym Matusov [phonetic], the 20 policy analyst. Yes, I'm going to ask certainly 21 Council member Garodnick to talk about his bills, 22 but I'd also like to make clear that we've been 23 joined by Council Member Vallone, Council Member 24 Dilan, and we have an interloper, Council Member 25 James, who is waiting for Housing to start. Go

1
2 right ahead, Council Member.

3 COUNCIL MEMBER GARODNICK: Thank 4 you, Chair Brewer, and I want to thank you for 5 holding the hearing on these bills and also 6 congratulate you on the bill that you sponsored on 7 the subject of False Claims. We all know that we 8 need to keep a closer eye on how our money is 9 being spent and in so doing empower those people 10 who are in the best position to spot problems
11 early. We're relying very heavily on outside 12 contractors today, so we need to have strong 13 checks in place to protect against fraud and waste 14 of taxpayer money. One example that I would cite 15 for the Committee is to imagine a $40 million five 16 year contract that is awarded to a company to 17 manufacture and deliver computers. During the 18 first year of that contract, the company delivers 19 all ordered items on time and on budget.
20 Employees are happy. Management is thrilled. The 21 customer is pleased, and life is generally good.
22 By the second year, however, some employees begin 23 to notice changes at the company. Co-workers call 24 in sick with greater frequency. Others just don't 25 show up. Deliveries are often late. There are a

1
2 few products shipped with defects. And several 3 supervisors seem to have developed an affinity for 4 expensive designer clothing. Declining company
5 performance does not escape the customer's notice 6 and it begins to grumble about poor workmanship, 7 all those late and sometimes defective deliveries 8 and considerable cost overruns. The company's 9 subcontractors also begin to complain due to late 10 payments for parts and supplies. Company
11 employees suspect foul play in the accounting 12 department, as do the subcontractors, but fear of 13 losing their jobs keeps everyone from acting on 14 their suspicions by reporting the fraud and the 15 fraud continues. Now imagine if that customer is 16 New York City and that the contract is one of the 17 17,000 that the city has secured. Unfortunately 18 that is the situation today. Fear of retaliation 19 makes the employees of contractors and 20 subcontractors hesitant to report bad acts. We 21 need to address that and that is what these bills 22 do. Today we will change the law so that 23 employees of contractors and subcontractors will 24 not fear retaliatory action when they see bad acts 25 and report them, and companies doing business with

1
2 the city will be required to inform employees of 3 their rights. We need to protect against adverse 4 personnel action for reporting corruption, 5 criminal activity and the like. Employees will 6 have the right to pursue legal action to seek job 7 reinstatement or to recoup lost wages, and 8 companies with city contracts would need to post 9 those rights and let employees know how they can 10 report allegations of false claims to the city's 11 Department of Investigation. These are important 12 bills that will protect those in the very best 13 position to report foul play and thus, would by 14 extension better protect taxpayer dollars. Again, 15 I thank you, Chair Brewer, for your willingness to 16 hear and move these bills and I would ask my 17 colleagues who are on the Committee to vote in 18 support of them. Thank you.

19 CHAIRPERSON BREWER: Thank you.

20 Does anybody else have a comment? Alright, will
